Cooked Meats Dept.
BIRD'S IGA

No Meat Department is complete without a good second "man". In our case, he's a she. Because Eleanor's been with us for quite some time now, and she knows what our customers like. That's why she's in charge of our 'Cooked Meats' section. And if there is something we don't have, ask Eleanor about it. Remember, when you're number 2, you try harder.

No substitute for personal service

The Stirling business community has proved that it never pays to push the panic button when an out of town commercial development appears on the scene.

While pessimists in some other neighboring communities watched with alarm last summer as a major competitor opened its doors at Belleville, Stirling merchants quietly went about the business of offering service and quality products at competitive prices, just as they had in the past.

The result, according to all reports we have heard, is that business over the past few months was as good if not better than before.

Of course, shopping plazas do have a special attraction to some people, but in the long run, experience has shown there is no substitute for personal service performed by familiar faces, in well-known local stores.

As we enter a new year, we feel confident in the future of Stirling business district, so long as the merchants continue their policy of making their customers feel needed.

Is there no happy medium?

By LYNN JONES

Those who happen to watch American television news programs are no doubt aware that this week the presidential campaigns of the two principal parties get underway. They use the "primary" system, where candidates enter mini-elections against their own party members, and by convention time this summer, supposedly, there should be a favorite contender.

From now until voting in November is eleven months away, and as one commentator noted this week, the nightly news will be liberally sprinkled with campaign coverage, because that is the important news of the day.

On the Canadian side of the fence, we are due for an election some time this year, if you believe the political predictions. The two major differences between the two systems is that the Americans know when they will vote, but take a year, more or less to choose their candidates, while Canadians usually know the principals (except for sudden misfortunes), but never know the actual date, until the whims of the prime minister of the day are satisfied.

It seems to me that somewhere between these two systems there might be a better solution. The most gratifying thing about both campaigns is the length. When the policies of both countries were established, long campaign times were essential, as rail travel was the principal mode of taking the message to the voters. The present time of 60 days between calling an election and voting day (at the Canadian federal level) has made the campaigns nothing more than an exercise in which leaders can jet to the most cities, (funds being about the only real criterion). This seems unfair, because more people can get a better knowledge of the individual party or candidate through television debates or rallies.

Die-hard political supporters will doubtless disagree, but I feel that if the thousands of dollars spent on air travel were devoted to planned, well-conducted debates between the candidates, the voter would know more than he does now. Political rallies do nothing to gain votes, beyond generating enthusiasm. Those attending such functions are nearly all committed to the party sponsoring the rally, and we doubt there are any converts at such events.

Most likely it is a deliberate policy to confuse the voters but in recent elections, there seems to be no real definable difference in policy between the three principals. We would have better government if the parties decided before the person he felt would follow the policies he favored.

From all sides, we will hear cries of trying to abolish something that has worked well for a hundred years. Politics, if this were the case, would be the only thing that was so perfect it could not stand improvement. Surely any process that has not been updated in a century is at least open to review and recommended change for the better. There is no facet of society that has not tried to make more efficient use of time and money - save our electoral process, which costs more and more to give us less and less when it comes to functioning, decision-making government.

Do You Remember?

75 Years Ago

Miss Helen Houston, formerly of this place, and for a time a member of THE NEWS-ARGUS staff, but who has for some years been a resident of Allenhurst, Pa., was recently married to Mr. L. L. Davies, of that city. We extend our congratulations and wish them happiness and prosperity.

The report presented at the annual meeting of Shamrock Cheese Factory on the 18th inst., was very satisfactory. There were taken in during the season 1,071,000 pounds of milk, from which was manufactured 101,490 pounds of cheese. The average amount of milk to a pound of cheese was 10.53 pounds. The average amount paid to shareholders was $20.84, and to patrons $19.84. Mr. J. W. Sager was re-elected president and salesman, and Mr. Frank Sager secured the position of cheesemaker.

R. A. Geen has purchased the taxi business of William Montgomery, of town.

Among those from this district who attended the Cheese Producers' Convention in Toronto, this week were Gordon Bailey, Walter Warren, James Johnston and Earl McAdam.

The many friends of Miss Audrey Robson, teacher at the Allan School, Mount Pleasant, will be sorry to learn that she underwent an operation at Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday morning.

Former Mayor of Oshawa, Mr. J. C. Anderson, K.C., was officially sworn in as Judge of the Supreme Court and as Surrogate, Judge of the County of Hastings on Tuesday.

Russell K. West was elected president of Stirling Branch of the Canadian Legion to succeed Rev. A. M. Lavery.

Stirling Man Killed In Violent Automobile Crash

A Stirling man was instantly killed Friday night when his automobile left Highway 14 and struck a hydro pole, north of Stirling, Roy Lake, of 122 Old Marmora Road, was 26 years old. The vehicle, which was torn in two in the impact, was travelling south on Highway 14, south of the Wellman's Corners turn, when it hit an icy patch on the road, crossed into an east ditch, sheered off a pole and ripped out 30 feet of fencing. Electric power was not disrupted but several thousand dollars damage was done, said a spokesman at the Madoc OPP detachment.

Constable Donald Bjornahl investigated the 11:45 p.m. fatality, Rev. Simon Bronson of Bancroft officiated at the funeral service at the Hogle Funeral Home on Monday afternoon. Interment took place in the Elmside Cemetery, Mr. Lake, a former president of the Elmside Footwear Employees Union, is survived by his wife, the former Lois Ruby Auld; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lake Sr., R.R. 3, Stirling. Murray joins Stirling in desire to opt out

The fledgling Quinte area planning board appears to be on the verge of breaking up as more and more disillusioned member municipalities serve notice they want to opt out.

Last week, Murray township joined the village of Stirling in expressing the desire to quit the board. Several municipalities are reported disgruntled over a number of major issues. Both the village of Stirling and Murray Township pay funds into two planning boards. Late in 1971 Stirling requested permission to withdraw and the QPB in favor of membership on the Hastings County Planning Board. The town's representatives said they could not afford double payments. Sanction was not received from the minister of municipal affairs.

At last week's meeting of the board, Murray Township expressed a similar desire, in favor of the Northumberland Durham Planning Board. Although Reeve Harry Lafferty did not make this a firm proposal, members from Trenton said they would follow the township move, if one is made.

"Council is unhappy with planning board and I wouldn't be surprised if the township goes the same way as Stirling," Reeve Lafferty told board members. Trenton Councillor Paul Tripp said "If Murray made some precipitous move, our interests are linked with theirs."

"It would be ridiculous to have us in one planning area and them in another. There is no realistic severance between Murray and Trenton," he said.

George Greer, another Trenton councillor, said as far as word in one planning area and them in another, there is no realistic severance between Murray and Trenton, he said.

"I'm afraid some of the rural area grounds are being avoided," Mr. Greer said.

"Belleville is getting its official plan and it's only fair that the rest of us get ours."

The Trenton councillor did a great deal Belleville would be paying a large portion of funds required for preparation of the area plan.

"You have to look at both sides," he said. A second sore point with various members, concerns official plans.

In December the board hired a consulting firm to prepare Belleville's long-awaited official plan and accompanying zoning by-law. This move was opposed by many rural members, who felt an overall Quinte area plan would serve a better purpose.

Their stand was unsuccessful. The board decided to proceed with the city plan, but said this move would not rule out any rural planning.

Both the village of Brighton and Brighton Township have provincially approved plans. Trenton and Stirling have complete plans which have been adopted by their councils, but not yet approved by the OMB.

Murray Township's plan is in the planning stages, with background studies under way for Frankford and the townships of Sidney and Thurlow.

Regarding the positions of Stirling and Murray townships he said the minister of municipal affairs "is going to take a hard look at this situation before making any changes."

It was his opinion that the province will not allow any members to drop out of the planning board, "unless they have real good reasons, it disrupts the whole organization."

A liaison meeting has been called for Jan. 20 between the department of municipal affairs, the Ontario Water Resources Commission, the department of transportation and communication, and representatives of the whole Quinte Area scheme.

Mr. Bush said he and planning director Bert Kenny would seek some firm answers at this session.

Bell Directories To Be Out

New books for old will be arriving in most households and places of business in Stirling beginning Thursday. Gay decorator colors of blue and green will again this year carry the invitation to Please Look In The Book on the new telephone directories.

Designed to encourage telephone users to check on telephone listings in the directory before calling directory assistance, the books provide a handy "dictionary" on the telephone and its services, said Robert Carleton, Bell Canada's manager for Stirling.

This year, there are two important number changes listed in the introductory pages. The new number to call for directory assistance is 411 and the new repair service number is 611.

Senior Citizens make up for lost time

Having gone two weeks without a meeting the Senior Citizens really made up last week with over 50 present. Progressive euchre was enjoyed with the high score going to Flossie Geen and Jack Senior, while the tail-enders were Almina Smith and George Heasman, Florence Daffoe and Hub Faulkner had birthday parties and each was presented with a nice big birthday cake.

John Holmes brought along a big box of chocolates. As they were being passed, Past Pres., George Heasman, was noticed searching on the floor for something. Ross Hoad asked if he might help him and George replied "I've dropped a carnal." Oh said Ross, have another and George said, "I want this one, it's got my teeth in it." Richie and Flossie Geen along with George and Lil Heasman served a nice afternoon lunch. They say scientists have made a new discovery. They can now make wool out of milk. It must make the cow feel a little sheepish.

Ability Fund drive will start Jan. 23

Mrs. Basil St. Pierre, chairman for the Stirling District Ability Fund (formerly March of Dimes) has announced that the annual campaign will be held during the week of Jan. 23-29.

Anyone who could donate time to canvass for this worthwhile cause is requested to call Mrs. St. Pierre at 395-2464.

In 1970, the Rehabilitation Foundation for the Disabled changed its fund raising slogan from the March of Dimes to the Ability Fund. This was done for several reasons: most people still associate the March of Dimes with polio and, as the Foundation has been assisting handicapped adults since 1956 with various disabilities, it was hoped that a new name and image (a stylized fir tree with a limb missing) would help to establish this broader format with the general public.

Present Foundation programs include vocational and psychological assessment, patient services such as the provision of artificial limbs and wheelchairs and job training and work opportunities. Fourteen permanent facilities are at present being operated in Ontario with service to remote parts of the province also being provided through travelling clinics.

Some of these programs and services are designed to develop

He asked for the members support and better attendance for the coming year. Companions from other Chapters spoke briefly including Rt. Ex. Comp. Frank K. CARE of Canada nearing objective

CARE of Canada is within $60,000 of reaching the goal of its Fall 1971 "World of CARE" campaign, set at $750,000. Thomas Kines, National Director of CARE announced today that there had been unprecedented response from certain sectors of the Canadian public, notable Miles for Millions committees in Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver, Kitchener and Kingston and Lions Clubs in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia. The Lions not only contribute funds to special CARE programs but provide the manpower to carry out Walk registrations and man checkpoints on CARE's behalf. Contributions continue to flow in at an average rate of $4,000 per day from among 230,000 Federal Government employees in the capital and across Canada and the majority of CARE's 80,000 regular donors who are particularly generous at this time of year.

Mr. Kines also expressed gratitude to the electronic and print media for the substantial contribution of air time and column space donated to CARE during the year, estimated at more than $200,000.

Demands on CARE's resources overseas, however, have been unusually heavy with earthquakes, tidal waves, floods and war adding to human misery in areas where most families already live on incomes of about $100 per year. CARE International has spent over $2,000,000 on the Pakistani refugees in India of which CARE Canada's share was over $200,000. Should peace be restored in East Bengal by year's end, a massive rehabilitation scheme will have to be launched and CARE's experienced staff will be in the front as they have been continually for the past 20 years. While world CARE must continue to support its feeding and self-help programs in 32 developing countries throughout Asia, Africa and Latin America, "We are therefore most grateful," Mr. Kines continued, "for the ongoing support of so many Canadians who realize there is still so much to be done and we wish them all a very Merry Christmas and a good New Year."

Incentive program expanded

Municipal Affairs Minister Dalton Bales announced today an expansion of the Provincial-Municipal employment incentive program.

The municipalities are being notified that they can now underwrite winter employment projects on private property provided they are in the public interest and have received the consent of the owners of the properties.

The employment incentive program is being expanded in this way in response to requests by municipalities, the Minister said.

"Any work on private property must be done by otherwise unemployed people, and the work itself must be for the good of the community in order to receive my Department's approval," Mr. Bales said.

Under the program the province is paying labor and certain other costs of the job-creating projects undertaken by municipalities and other local authorities.

The Minister also said he is notifying municipal treasurers that funds available under the program have been increased by $10 million to $35 million.

"The extra funds will be distributed on a first-come-first-served basis and urge municipal councils to re-assess their local employment situations with the objective of undertaking these additional works projects as soon as possible in the new year," Mr. Bales said.

Since the program was announced six weeks ago, 400 local authorities have started projects costing approximately $13 million and creating 421,000 man-days of work. About 150 municipalities have already requested $4 million in extra funds beyond their initial allocations.

"This response so early in the program is most encouraging," Mr. Bales commented.

Of the $25 million originally available under the program, $17 million was allocated to municipalities and Indian Bands and $8 million to school boards and conservation authorities.

Local bodies were to notify the Department of Municipal Affairs by December 31st of whether they intended using funds initially allocated to them.

"Funds not taken up by the end of this year, plus the $10 million now added to the program, will be distributed to those municipalities who come forward with additional projects for alleviating their local unemployment problems," Mr. Bales said.

The Minister said that if the total of $35 million available is

Rude Treatment

Presumably, when the Prime Minister of Canada is to be interviewed on national television, it is he the people are interested in hearing. But the tax-supported Canadian Broadcasting Corporation apparently does not see it that way.

Sunday night on Weekend, Canadians who expected to hear answers from Mr. Trudeau were subjected to a sickening display of knowledge-parading on the part of an obscure announcer.

Instead of allowing the PM to answer his often mundane questions, this pompous bird (Peter what's-his-name) kept cutting Trudeau off in mid-sentence whenever the prime minister tried to get a word in edge-wise.

We once knew a young reporter who claimed to have amassed a "vast knowledge" of just about everything under the sun, before he was even dry behind the ears. He had nothing on this CBC type who could not seem to tolerate losing the floor for even a few seconds.

We would not have blamed Mr. Trudeau if he had walked away from the program in its early stages, when it became obvious that this piqueeque announcer was determined to monopolize the microphone for the entire 30 minutes.

It had been our feeling that a person conducting an interview was to ask questions in order to draw out enlightening answers of interest to the listening public. Perhaps we were wrong.

We suspect, however, that Canadians at large found Weekend's treatment of the country's most important figure as repulsive as we did.

If the actions of Peter what's-his-name are representative of the new breed of TV announcer, the public may soon lose all confidence in public affairs programs.

And if interviewers labor under the conviction that the whole nation desires to hear their weighty pronouncements, let them come down from their ivory towers and get elected. Otherwise, they should know enough to stay in the background.

Rylstone WI

Rylstone Women's Institute held their January meeting in the W.I. hall on Wednesday, Jan. 5 with 12 ladies and one child in attendance.

Mrs. Jack Wilson, president, opened the meeting with the Institute Ode and Mary Stewart Collect, Mrs. Donald Brunton presided at the piano.

The roll call was answered by 'A Canadian Export, its origin and destination.'

The motto on "Second Century Challenge to Women" was held for another time as there was a heavy load of business.

A note of thanks was read from the Quinte Mental Health Association for a Christmas donation.

A letter from Mrs. H. Noblitt, the new F.W.I.O. president was read and among other things she reminded the ladies of the 75th anniversary of the F.W.I.O., to be celebrated at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto in February.

Summary Day for the short course, The Knack of Sewing with Knits, will be held in Stirling later this month.

Mrs. Paul McKeown, secretary-treasurer, attended the Assessment Review Court, re taxes on the W.I. hall and the Institute Park. The taxes were revoked because the assessment office had made an error when they taxed the institute hall. It was learned that the hall and park are tax exempt.

The ladies will be catering to Hoads Community Sale later this month. They voted to try for another sale later and the secretary has spoken for another.

A committee was chosen to ask for tenders on putting heavier wiring in the W.I. Hall. Members of the committee are Mrs. Jack Watson and Mrs. Austin Dunk and it was decided that until heavier wiring could be installed, the rental fee would remain $6.00 for non-members and $3.00 for members.

In the discussion concerning the rental of stacking chairs, members will be allowed to buy row them free of charge but they must repair all damages. There is a small charge for non members, but the chairs must remain in the community.

There was a display of articles made by the members on the theme, 'Something useful made from something useless.'

Mrs. Don Stewart, convenor for Citizenship and Education had charge of the program.

A reading, entitled 'Recipe for a New Year,' was given by Mrs. Ray Stewart.

Mrs. Hector Arnold spoke on the topic "Women's Lib," and she stressed that economic situations should be based on merit for work done. There was a lively discussion after this well prepared and given topic was ended.

Mrs. Jack Watson conducted a quiz and delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Paul McKeown and Mrs. Doug Brunton.

Patrons of the Stirling Library and friends will regret to learn that Mr. G. L. Clute, local librarian, is a patient in a Kingston hospital. During his absence Miss Arline Tummon is in charge.

Library patrons are asked to note that the Library now opens a half hour later, 3:30 p.m. instead of at 3:00, and remains open until 5:30 p.m.

Rev. A. M. Lavery, minister of St. Paul's United Church and Carmel for some seven years and who recently was appointed Chaplain of Queen's University, Kingston, left on Sunday to assume his new duties on Monday. Mr. Lavery will conduct the morning service in St. Paul's and the afternoon service at Carmel each Sunday until his successor is inducted.

Considerable excitement prevailed in Spring Brook on Tuesday evening when a large building, situated opposite McKeown's Garage collapsed owing to the heavy weight of snow on the roof. The building is owned by Mr. Hiram Mumby, local storekeeper, but has been rented by

Reg. McKeown for storage purposes. There were a number of cars stored in the building at the time with those belonging to Norma Wood and Malcolm Mason being slightly damaged, while those of Murney Mason and Reg. McKeown suffered more extensive damages. Men worked at considerable risk of injury until midnight to extricate the cars so that nothing worse could happen to them before morning.

65 Years Ago

Not since the discovery in 1866 of the famous Richardson mine in the township of Madoc, which led to a mad rush to the new El Dorado, has there been so much excitement over any find in the Hastings mining region as there is in Madoc village over the discovery of a phenomenally rich vein of gold-bearing rock, about nine miles north of Madoc village.

The find was made by Mr. E. B. Davis, an old and experienced miner, who has been connected with the mining industry for many years.

A sample, about ten pounds in weight, of the vein matter was taken to Belleville by Mr. John T. Cockram, of Madoc village, and was closely inspected by Mr. Ernest Fraeek, M. E., and others and was pronounced the richest sample of gold-bearing rock that has been seen there since the Richardson.

The sample consists of mulky quartz, dolomite and black country rock. It is literally studded with gold, which shows in specks of varying size in the dolomite as well as in the quartz. Such ore would yield several thousands of dollars to the ton.

Particulars as to the exact location of the mine, the width of the vein and the depth of the shaft could not be ascertained, but these details will no doubt be forthcoming in due time.

A Weekly Meditation

By REV. JAMES F. MCGARVEY
St. James the Minor Church, Stirling

Epiphany means Manifestation or Demonstration. God has entered into human affairs to save men. What is more, he has intervened openly, not in a subtle, invisible way. The tangible, flesh-and-blood reality of the infant Jesus is the beginning of a lucid, manifest city-on-a-mountain policy by God. The Advent-Christmas season proclaims his open coming. The Feast of Epiphany focuses on it in a particular vivid way. How? First of all, by the radiant vision of Isaiah. The prophet sees the whole world in darkness, with brilliant light flooding Jerusalem, God's city. He sees people from every country converging on the manifest light, and bearing gifts of faith and love for God. Then comes the stirring psalm of worldwide peace and justice that will flow out of the divine ruler-King, and inspire universal adoration. St. Paul speaks of his role to present this "mystery of Christ" to the pagans for all to share.

Finally, that most poetic and appealing picture of three "wise men" from far away, guided by a dazzling new star in the sky towards the new king. In homage they present him gold, frankincense, and myrrh. The obscure and poverty-stricken birth in the Bethlehem stable is no longer a secret. It is manifest now to the whole world.

His life and deeds were to serve as guides for men. But all Christians are to reflect the light of Christ in the world. Their lives, their deeds, must show that the influence of Christ is still alive in the world. Isaiah assures us that nations will walk by this light. St. Paul confirms this idea. Salvation is not reserved to the Jews alone. Christ came to save all men. God's entire plan was not known to Abraham, Moses, King David, or even Solomon. It was revealed by the Spirit to the holy Apostles and prophets. But that plan, the good news of Salvation, must be made known again, (retold again) by the Christians in the years of our Lord 1972.

Suggested Readings: Isaiah 60: 1-6
Ephesians 3: 2-3a, 5-6
Matthew 21: 1-12

River Valley WI

The January meeting of River Valley Women's Institute was held Thursday, Jan. 6, at the home of Mrs. Vernon Harry with 27 members, four visitors and four pre-school children in attendance.

Mrs. George Grills presided and opened with the Institute Ode. Mary Stewart Collett and a welcome to the guests.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks read the minutes, the financial report for the centre and the literature were given by Mrs. V. Harry and Mrs. J. L. Donohoe.

The correspondence included a thank you note from Belleville for the gifts to Mental Health. A thank you and a receipt from A.C.W.V. for the donation to the Land Rover project.

Before Christmas Mrs. Roy Tucker, Mrs. Ernest Carr and Mrs. Ralph Carlisle visited 15 shut-ins and presented them with a small gift from River Valley Institute. Several of these folk sent messages of thanks and one letter included a $5.00 donation.

The Federated Women's Institute of Ontario are celebrating their 75th anniversary at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto on Saturday, February 12 at 12:30 noon. Mrs. Glenn Bush was chosen to represent River Valley Branch. The president of Hastings West District, The district president, Mrs. Roy Tucker, will be in charge of the arrangements. This will be a supper meeting and each member of the eight branches is to provide her own dishes, cutlery and one special article of food.

River Valley Institute will provide meat for their own members. This will be a special 75th anniversary celebration in honor of Adelaide Hoodless, who founded the first world institute at Stoney Creek, Ont., in 1897.

The 4-H club leaders and the senior training leaders will be given their usual honorarium.

The Summary Day for the sewing classes is scheduled for January 18 at 1:30 p.m. at the community hall. The project was, 'The Knack of Sewing with Knits.' One of the members is ill and will be remembered with a gift.

A committee was appointed to arrange for catering to the Lower Trent Valley Fish and Game club annual ladies night banquet later this month.

River Valley W.I. catered on New Year's eve for the annual Stirling Legion party. A member donated two novelty articles and these will be used as special gifts at a later date. The next meeting will be on February 3 at the centre. The topic is historical research and current events. The roll call is to be a wrapped homemade accessory to sell for a dime. The buyer to wear same for the meeting. The members are asked to bring their youngest picture.

The theme is Mrs. Yesterday meets Miss Today at Mr. Tomorrow's.

It was decided to have the work on the floor at the centre completed with Otis Richardson in charge.

Mrs. Charles Wilson presided for the program and she gave a short message on the theme.

Mrs. Claude Tucker introduced the guest speaker, Donald Williams of Stirling, chairman of Hastings County Board of Education. He gave a very informative message on the subject and a synopsis of the work involved. He said the 1972 budget was $21,000,000. Of this it takes $1,000,000 to provide transportation for the children to travel by bus to the various schools. There are 24,000 students, 1,200 teachers and 300 people are employed in clerical positions or custodians.

Twenty-seven percent of the cost comes from local taxes and 60% is through government grants.

Education is meant to develop each child from all parts of Hastings county. The basic purpose is that all children have sufficient knowledge of worldly affairs as well as the ability to calculate mathematics and other general subjects.

Mr. Williams discussed several problems of education and he also outlined plans for the new school to be built at Stirling in 1972.

A discussion period followed and several questions were asked by the members.

Mrs. Roy Tucker voiced appreciation thanks on behalf of River Valley W.I. and made the presentation of a suitable memento.

The roll call was answered with 'My impression of the new School System', Dale Harry gathered 'The Pennies for Friendship.'

Mrs. James Hoard read an article on Education as written by a teacher.

In lieu of a contest Mrs. Wilson presented two lucky cup prizes and these were won by Ada Bush and Lois Hoard.

Refreshments for the social hour were provided by Mrs. Glenn Bush, Mrs. Roy Irven and Mrs. Percy Craighead.

At the close Mrs. Ross Bush voiced a gracious thank you to all who had contributed to the success of the afternoon.

THE YEAR OF THE ATOM: apt description of Ontario Hydro's 1971 activities. At Pickering nuclear power station east of Toronto, initial fuel loading was done by hand (top centre). Two of its four 540,000-kilowatt units are now operating — Unit one went on line in April and Unit two in October, making this the world's second largest single source of nuclear power. In mid-summer, foundation work started on 3,200,000-kilowatt Bruce nuclear power station, (centre left), part of the billion-dollar Bruce Nuclear Power Development on Lake Huron.

A new plant on the Montreal River increased provincial capacity. Lower Nott generating station (bottom) in northern Ontario is Hydro's latest and perhaps last hydro-electric source.

Power from the first unit at fossil-fueled Nanticoke generating station (right) on Lake Erie began to flow as the year closed.

Transmission line research is under way using an impulse generator (top left) which produces power surges of up to 2,800,000 volts — the voltage of lightning. Insulation strengths of various components are studied in the outdoor laboratory setting at Kleinburg, north-west of Toronto.

MARSH WORLD by Angus Short Ducks Unlimited

DUCKS UNDER WATER

The white-winged scoter and common golden-eye, two regular inhabitants of deeper marshes and lakes, are true diving ducks. Swimming under water, the scoter spreads the inner half of his wing while holding the feathers close against the body. The false wing or "thumb" is fully extended. All movement is by thrusts with the big webbed feet.

LA RONDINE

A love story set to glorious music by Puccini, La Rondine starring Canada's Teresa Stratas of the Metropolitan Opera Company will be telecast on CBC-TV in a 90-minute color production, Wednesday, Jan. 12 (1972) at 9:30 p.m. In duet in this scene, Miss Stratas is pictured with her leading man, American tenor Anastasio Vrenas. The opera is set in Paris and on the French Riviera in 1870, and is the story of a beautiful demi-mondaine (Miss Stratas) who briefly forsakes a life of luxury for the love of a poor country boy. The production is by CBC's Emmy award-winning producer, Norman Campbell (whose production of the Hansel and Gretel opera last season won nationwide acclaim). Beautiful sets and costumes add lustre to this CBC-TV musical treat.

Dollars and Good Sense

(By William J. Martin)
I've received some questions recently about what to do to get out of debt or what to do when emergencies wreck the family budget. This is something that can happen to almost any of us, of course. These days, many families are living right up to their income and sometimes a little more so. When major unexpected bills come up, serious financial trouble can follow.

In a recent column, I discussed some of the steps to take when you find yourself unable to meet all of your financial obligations. The basic common sense rule is to notify all creditors immediately and explain your situation to them. There are many options you and your creditors can take to adjust to the emergency. One suggestion, however, is to make some plans before you notify creditors. If you still have a deficit after reducing your living expenses as much as possible, go over each of your monthly payments.

CLARENCE WRIGHT

Mr. Walter Frank, President of W. Frank Real Estate Limited, is pleased to announce the appointment of CLARENCE WRIGHT to his growing sales staff.

See how much you would have to cut your payments to come up with a total you can handle. In other words, when you find you must call your creditors, you should not only explain your problem to them, but also have a specific recommendation as to how you would like to get through your crisis.

By reducing payments, you don't actually reduce your total debt, of course. You simply extend your debt or refinance it. You can also get a loan to pay off your debts, leaving you with lower monthly payments.

Getting out of debt this way is not easy. It's a long, hard struggle, but at least it can be done — and done without resorting to legal actions.

For those of you who are able to meet monthly payments, make sure you're saving something so that if disaster strikes you, you'll have a fund from which you can draw.

Safety campaign aimed at alcohol

Blood alcohol level
"A car driver can be charged with being impaired even though he can pass a breathalyzer test," Paul Farmer, Executive Director of the Canada Safety Council said today.

"Since the breathalyzer was adopted, there has been a tendency for people to believe that they can drink and drive if they are under the legal limit set in the breathalyzer legislation in the Criminal Code of Canada," he said.

"But the breathalyzer legislation means that having more than 80 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of your blood is a criminal offence.

"The legislation still says that impaired driving is an offence even if one has not reached this level.

"The legislation still says that many people can become impaired below this limit," he said.

"Alcohol affects everyone differently. The degree of impairment depends on your body weight, your age, your health, whether you are using prescription drugs and other factors.

"It takes the body more than an hour to eliminate one and a half ounces of spirits, three ounces of non-fortified wine, or 12 ounces of beer," he said. "So if you drink and must drive, have no more than one drink an hour. If you are an older person, have a medical problem or use prescription drugs, possibly you shouldn't be drinking at all before driving."

"His statement supports a campaign launched by the Canada Safety Council this month aimed at a leading cause of traffic accidents — the adult social drinker.

"The campaign is aimed at re-establishing the host/guest relationship and emphasizing the responsibilities of all who drive after drinking.

"Traditionally the good host has provided his guests with more than enough to eat and drink," Mr. Farmer said. "The purpose of the campaign is to make the host aware that he is being a good friend only when he takes the safety of his guests into consideration."

"This does not mean that one should abstain from serving alcoholic beverages. But it does mean that the host will make every effort to keep everyone below the critical level where driving ability is impaired."

The campaign also points out the responsibility of the driver to his family, the host of the party, pedestrians and persons in other vehicles. "You ARE Your Brother's Keeper."

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

When Husband Remarks

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

Two years ago—after 17 years of marriage—my husband and I were divorced. Then I began to hear rumors that he was seeing some other woman. Now he's apparently going to marry her. That's all right with me, but we have two teen-age daughters, 13 and 15, and he had the nerve to invite them to his wedding. I've had many arguments with the girls about their going. I don't think it's right for them to, I feel their father is forcing them to be disloyal to me. I'm just so furious about the whole thing, what do you think about this?

B.N.

Dear B.N.:

Divorces are always rough on the parties concerned. This includes the children as well as the adults. Since those children are the offspring of both parents—not just one—their loyalties must naturally be divided.

To ask a child to side with one parent against the other is to ask him to tear himself in two. And here's something else to consider: children of divorce often fear that when their parents reject each other, they're also rejecting the youngsters. And that's pretty hard for them to take. So when your ex-husband invites the girls to his wedding, this may be his way of showing he wants them to go on being in his life, if you can look at the situation in this light, it might be easier for you to live with it.

Feelings of insecurity

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I am 41 years old and my husband is 47. Now that I've entered so-called "middle age," I've been experiencing feelings of insecurity about my physical attractiveness. I want to point out however that my marriage is a very happy one. I'm most fortunate in having a wonderful husband to whom I've been married for 20 years. (He's a most attractive and energetic man.) We also have three attractive children whose ages are 19, 16 and 12. However, our world today seems geared to the young and the beautiful. I fear that by losing my beauty, the contrast between myself and the lovely young girls who seem to abound will be obvious to my husband, who may start looking elsewhere.

A.B.

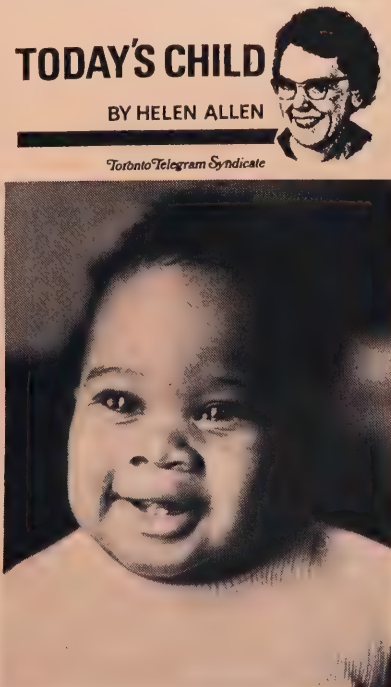

Dear A.B.:

One of the best ways to lose your looks is to fret about losing them. So relax and grow older gracefully along with your husband (who isn't getting any younger or himself.) After all, marriages that have been good and happy for 20 years don't stop being good and happy because of the appearance of a few gray hairs or wrinkles. Those that do fall apart at this time were usually never very solid to begin with. And if this doesn't reassure you, just think for a moment about the many broken marriages among the so-called "beautiful people."

HAPPY AND CHEERFUL

This happy-looking baby is Larry, seven months old. Jamaican in descent, he is a big boy for his age, sturdy and solid, with lovely dark eyes, black tightly curled hair and medium brown skin.

Larry is in excellent health but he has an enzyme deficiency known as G6-PD. It is a fairly common condition among American Negro males and also affects Italians, Greeks and Middle Eastern, African and Oriental races with quite high frequency, ranging from 5 to 40 per cent. This is a benign condition through which the hemoglobin is affected by certain drugs — the sulfas, anti-malarial drugs, aspirin and Vitamin K. People with G6-PD have a normal life span and no treatment is needed except to avoid the prescribed drugs.

Larry is an alert, responsive baby, reaching all his milestones at appropriate times. He has an easy-going, cheerful disposition, chuckling and blowing bubbles at the slightest encouragement.

This baby's medical condition should not be a problem. He needs parents who will welcome a lovable little son and accept the drug situation calmly. To inquire about adopting Larry please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information ask your Children's Aid Society.

Boom year predicted for Sidney

"Another boom year" is the forecast for 1972 following a record building spree in Sidney Township during the past year.

The prediction was made by building inspector George Caves who says he "expects things to be as good or better" in the next 12 months.

Building permits increased by more than $1 million over the 1970 record to an all time high of $8,345,960. Bustiest month was September when a permit of $3.5 million was granted to Loyalist College for expansion.

Stirling Village Council unanimously voted Monday night to appeal the recent $5,000 reduction in assessment granted the Hogle Funeral Home by the provincial Court of Revision late last year.

Councillors debated the issue for some time, and the general opinion was that with the assessment now slightly less than $40,000, it places the value of the commercial premises relatively close to several private residences in the village, and if the value were allowed to stand, council might be faced with numerous other appeals.

Clerk W.L. Pollock was instructed to contact the assessment office and determine when the notice of reduction will be given, as the village has 14 days after that to lodge the appeal. The actual appeal will be handled by the village solicitors.

The assessment was reduced from $45,000 on the actual funeral home to $39,970, and on the residential portion of the property to $10,525 from $11,725. Also the upper floor of the funeral home was to be classified as residential rather than commercial.

With these changes, the business assessment on the property is reduced from $15,500 to $9,550.

There was no change on the assessment of two other houses owned by Mr. Hogle.

In giving its decision, the court noted only one funeral had required use of the upper portion of the building during 1971 and that perhaps for the size of the community, the home had been overbuilt.

In his appeal, Hogle cited lack of leadership in the village which caused little population growth.

During Mrs. Pyear's convalescence, Carmel residents are invited to send news items directly to the News-Argus, preferably in written form.

Previous to holding that office, he spent 30 years in pastorates in Ontario and Quebec. He is well known for his work in ecumenical fields as he has served on committees of the World Council of Churches for many years.

Mr. Caves, who is in constant contact with local real estate agents, said: "Different builders anticipate a boom. I wouldn't like to forecast a future for the coming year but things should continue to progress."

Breakdown of the permits is as follows: Farm and residential building, $3,177,460; commercial, $1,629,500; industrial, $22,000 and tax exempt, $3,517,000.

and thus the larger building has not been required.

The only objection to the granting of the appeal was made by Clerk W.L. Pollock, who noted the original assessment was $56,000, and had been dropped to $45,000, previously while the original assessment on the living portion was $12,000. He failed to see how property values had deteriorated so much since 1969.

The new buildings, expected to be erected later this year, will house road maintenance equipment and the fire department's east division.

WORK BEGINS ON NEW SCHOOL

A work crew from J.T. Donald and Co. was busy last Thursday taking soil samples from the site of the new elementary school south of St. James St. The soil samples, taken from a depth of 15 feet will be sent to a laboratory and analyzed to determine what type of foundation would be best suited for the new structure. The tests also tell engineers what type of footings would be required and if there are any water problems at the site. The several soil samples were taken from the areas that will be under the greatest stress from the new building. Paul Bartle, Greg Kelly and Rostar Chartrand conducted the tests. It is expected that tenders will be called for the new school at the end of this month.

Tyendinaga reeve is county warden

Tyendinaga Reeve Carman Gibson is the 1972 warden for Hastings County.

The election of the new warden was the first order of business as county council members met in caucus yesterday to choose between five aspirants for the position. Appointments for the various county committees are also decided behind closed doors and later ratified in open council.

The new county warden succeeds Elsie and Grimthorpe reeve Kenneth Smith who held the honor last year.

All five aspirants for the warden's chair who made their intentions known at the December session remained in the race. They were Carman Gibson, Thurlow reeve Horace Casey, Huntington reeve Russell Sills, George Lyons of Deseronto and Jack McKenzie of Faraday township.

The warden-elect is the first county council held chosen from Tyendinaga Township since Harold Long held the honor in 1963.

Among the Books At Stirling Public Library

At the first meeting of the Stirling Public Library Board for the new year, Mrs. A. Wells was elected chairman, and Mrs. C. Harrop was appointed to replace Mr. R. Hulin, who was retired from service in this capacity. The Board expressed their appreciation to the previous chairman, Mrs. D. Patterson, for her years of leadership. Members of the Stirling Library Board are: Chairman Mrs. A. Wells, Treasurer Mr. W. Camm, Mrs. D. Patterson, Mrs. C. Harrop and Reeve Robert Anderson.

The Librarian is designating the remainder of January as "forgiveness days" when anyone may return books that are overdue with no questions asked and no fines assessed.

Some of the new books on shelves include "Earth Shine", by Anne Morrow Lindbergh - meditations on earth's life and man's reach to the moon; "A Yak for Christmas" by Louise Hillary - a delightful account of the Hillary family's trek through the Himalayas; "Wiv a Little Bit O' Luck" - a cheerful biography of Stanley Holloway, comedian of stage, music hall and movies, whose best known role, perhaps, was that of Liza Doolittle's father in the musical comedy, "My Fair Lady".

Fiction titles include, "The Captive Queen of Scots" by Jean Plaidy - an absorbing historical novel about Mary, Queen of Scots and her captivity; "Terracotta Palace, by Christine Maybury; "I am Mary Dunne" by Brian Moore; "The Saint on T.V." by Leslie Charteris; "The Man on the Bench in the Barn" by Georges Simenon; and "Goodbye, Aunt Elva" by Elizabeth Fenwick - a chilling story of suspense, set in a quiet street in a small town, behind the walls of a very ordinary old house. Happy Reading!

Presbyterian women's group holds meeting

The January meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Women was held at the home of Mrs. C. Tummon with 14 members and 1 visitor present.

Incoming President, Mrs. K. Tompkins called the meeting to order with a warm welcome to everyone and expressed thanks to Mrs. Tummon for her hospitality. Hymn 263 was sung with Mrs. Taylor as pianist. Following the reading of the state of officers by the secretary, Mr. Taylor installed the officers for 1972. He closed the installation service with a reminder to everyone that it takes every member, not just the president, to make a successful organization.

Mrs. Tompkins then led in a very inspiring worship service based on The Light of the World. She opened with prayer followed with singing "Jesus Thou Joy of loving hearts." Passages of scripture were read by Mrs. C. Tummon from Isaiah, chapter 60; Mrs. R. Eggleton from John 12; Mrs. P. McGee from John 1; and Mrs. L. Dufee from John 1. Mrs. Tompkins interspersed these scripture readings with some thoughts on life, stressing that Christ should be the Light of our life.

Mrs. M. Ward read a poem "Take Christ from the Manger" emphasizing that we should not always think of Christ as a "Babe" in the manger but make him a part of our everyday life. The worship service was concluded with prayer by the president followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Hymn 454 was sung.

After the minutes and roll call, various items of business pertaining to membership fees, catering to a snowmobile club and representation on the Board of Managers were discussed. Membership is to be continued in the Film Board at Corby Library.

The ladies were asked to look after a pot luck supper at 6:30 on the 24th preceding the annual meeting.

Everyone was reminded of the urgent need for used stamps.

A poem "Prayer for the New Year" was read by Mrs. L. Tompkins. Mrs. Taylor gave a solo, "I want to follow The Steps of my Lord" and Mrs. D. Farvey gave a paper, "A New Year at the Gate". The meeting closed with the benediction. A contest was enjoyed by everybody and was followed with lunch by the committee in charge.

The Big Mail-out has begun.

Tax reform legislation has been approved by Parliament and is now law.

What does tax reform mean to you? How will it affect you?

To answer these questions, the Department is conducting a massive national mailing program. Booklets are now being printed and mailed to all taxpayers as quickly as they come off the press.

The complete mailing will be finished in about four weeks.

All taxpayers will receive at least two booklets.

"Highlights for Individuals" and "Valuation Day". These should provide answers to most of your questions.

Some taxpayers will receive additional information, according to their specific needs.

Read your booklets. Afterwards, if you have questions, ask us. We'll be glad to help.

You will find that your booklets will make it easier to file your income tax return in 1973, because they will help you to prepare now.

Tell us the reasons

Controversy continues to surround membership in the Quinte Area Planning Board. Now the township of Murray has joined the village of Stirling in expressing a desire to opt out. If Murray quits, then Trenton apparently will follow. By now, the provincial government surely must realize that something is wrong with its approach to regional government. It is difficult to think that these wholesale revolts are groundless.

On the other hand, we are disappointed that the people of Stirling have never been advised of the reasons behind the village council's decision to opt out of the Quinte area. Although we understand the matter has received a considerable amount of discussion, very little has been said at regular council meetings, or at any other local meetings where the press was present.

Council may well have sound reasons for wanting out of the Quinte board. Certainly it is not logical that Stirling should have to support both the Quinte and the Hastings Planning Boards, as is now the case.

We do stress, however, that the citizens of the village have a right to know the background to this important issue. For the outcome of the current application to leave the Quinte planning area will undoubtedly have a profound effect upon this community's future growth.

The time has come to be frank with the people. A statement from the reeve and council would be most welcome.

Do You Remember?

25 Years Ago

The home of Mrs. William Sutherland was the scene of a happy gathering on Wednesday afternoon when about thirty friends gathered to honor Miss Margaret Bateman with a miscellaneous shower, prior to her marriage.

The afternoon was spent in playing bingo, Mrs. Gordon Green read an address and the gifts, which were in a decorated basket, were presented by Mrs. G. Sutherland and Mrs. W. Sutherland.

Margaret expressed her appreciation to her many friends, following which lunch was served by the hostesses and a social hour enjoyed. All departed wishing the bride-to-be much happiness.

Rain and mild weather were not the only evidences of a premature spring in this district. On Thursday last Foster Wainnamaker, of this village, picked some pussywillows, which were budded out, on the sixth concession of Sidney and brought them to this office for display.

Prices in the local barber shops took an upward jump this week, following the decontrol order issued by the Government. Haircuts are now 40¢ and in case you want a little tonic rubbed on you pay an additional 20¢. Shaves have advanced from 20 to 25¢ while there has been a general revision in prices of the other services rendered by the tonsorial artists.

R. B. Murray, local Veterinary, has purchased the farm of Mrs. Roy Wolbourne, situated a couple of miles north of this village, on Highway No. 14.

River Valley Women's Institute held a successful euchre party at the home of Mrs. J. L. Donohoe on Friday evening. There were nine tables participating and the winners were: Ladies, 1st, Mrs. Ed. Heasman; 2nd, Mrs. Alex. Tanner; Gentlemen, 1st, John Kane; 2nd, Fred Heasman.

A dainty lunch was served by the ladies at the conclusion of the cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armstrong entertained the Young Adult Group of Carmel at a social evening when Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Lavery were guests of honour. A programme of musical numbers by Misses Verna Brown and Ariene Armstrong, Messrs. Sherwood Reid and Jack Wood was presented. A number of games were also enjoyed. On behalf of the organization the presentation of a silver sandwich tray was made to Mr. and Mrs. Lavery. They made suitable replies and lunch was served.

Lloyd Dafeo, who has conducted a poultry farm and chicken hatchery here for the several years, has disposed of his hen houses and four lots to Arthur Reid, of Holloway. It is understood that Mr. Reid will confine his business to raising poultry for marketing.

Messrs. Russell and Clarence West attended a convention of the Ontario Locker Cold Storage held in Toronto Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

65 Years Ago
Rawdon Town Hall, Jan. 14th
Council met for organization: the members all present. After making declaration of qualifications and office the following named gentlemen took their seats and will constitute the Council for the current year: Geo. Burdette, reeve; W. W. Dracup, deputy-reeve; Geo. A. Eggleton, James Moore, Philip McConnell, councillors.

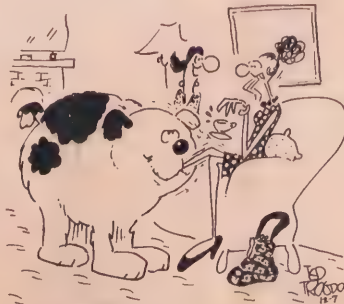

Mr. Dracup introduced a by-law to appoint township officers. It was read a first time and upon motion was referred to Committee on By-Laws. The Council in full sat as Committee on By-Laws, Mr. Dracup in the chair. The by-law was read a second time in Committee, and passed, clause by clause.

The following officers were appointed:
Auditors—Wm. Meiklejohn and Jas. Scott.
Road Surveyor—John Bateman and J. T. Belshaw.
Road Surveyor—Miles Mason.
Health Officer—James Linn, sr.
Treasurer—Geo. A. Snarr.

The home of Mr. Geo. Bailey, Harold, was the scene of great mirth on Friday night, when a large party of young people, well supplied with oysters and other dainties took possession of it and remained until a late hour.

Junk mail another form of pollution

(BY LYNN JONES)

Government at all levels, including the myriad of agencies and commissions are guilty of a form of pollution that Canada can do without, and at the same time help conserve one of our most precious natural resources—newsprint and the trees from which it comes.

Anyone engaged in the communications business such as we are, receives mountains of mail that is of utterly no use to anyone in the weekly newspaper field. We refer specifically to publicity blarney for the CBC radio programs; speeches of various politicians that were given as long as three weeks previous; press releases from this and that department about Joe Blow being appointed under secretary of this or commissioner of that; and the pounds of material ground out to publicize events long distances away or long since past.

Frequently complaints are heard about postal service, and we could mention two recent instances of first class letters that were undelivered in Toronto and London, Ont., ten days after mailing. There is no doubt that what used to be considered a "junk" delivering the mail promptly, has almost disappeared. Doubtless part of the cause is increased volume, not only of letters, but all the other mishmash we have partially described. If the nuisance mail were cut to the essential minimum, it would be a start.

Another practice that we have discovered some companies follow is mailing us statements with a "nil" balance. Surely if the firm concerned has a reasonably up to date bookkeeping system, it should know if it owes a bill or not. Why spend postage, stationery and handling time to say nothing. This effort could be more likely put to better use contacting accounts that do owe, and quite possibly beyond the normal 30-day credit period.

Canada has had trouble in recent years with postal service, and like anything else the government does, it keeps costing more. Being government, they don't worry a hoot about the service. If every effort were made to eliminate from the mails anything that did not need to enter this vital stream of information, this would be a start.

From a pollution standpoint,

A Weekly Meditation

BY REV. EDWARD MACDONALD
Good Tidings Pentecostal Church

As we, now look forward to the rest of 1972, I wonder how many resolutions have been broken since the start of the new year.

We sometimes think ahead and boast of ourselves and what we will be doing in the future. Is there anyone of us who know what will happen tomorrow? The word of God tells in Proverbs 27:1, "Boast not thyself of tomorrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth."

I will quote from January 1972 Readers Digest, "Prayer is a wise and practical way to start the new year. But at the end of this year, if it turns out to be a better year than last, may we remember to praise God, who responded to our pleading. Let us not be like the man lost in the deep woods. Later, in describing the experience, he told how frightened he was and how he had even knelt and prayed, 'Did God answer your prayer?' someone asked, 'Oh, no!' was the reply, 'Before God had a chance, a guide came along and showed me the path.'

This man did not see God working in his life. Neither did the servant of Elisha but Elisha prayed that his eyes be opened and they were. We need to pray that God will open our eyes so we can see his working through our lives. So we can praise God for all things this year.

Air Canada is well under way in its program to convert all of its Pratt & Whitney JT8D engines to make them smokefree. The JT8Ds power the DC-9 jetliners of which the airline operates a fleet of 36. A recent flypast low over a Canadian airport shows a DC-9 with one engine modified. The black smoke plume can be seen pouring from the non-modified starboard engine while the port engine shows no trace of smoke pollution.

Dollars and Good Sense

(By William J. Martin)
My wife and I have outgrown the need for the large home we've lived in for many years. Although it's in pretty good shape, there are some places that could be fixed up. What's your advice on making these repairs? Will it be worth it or will it help sell the house?

Dear B.G.:
Most real estate experts agree that it doesn't pay to spend a lot of money for household facelifts simply to help sell your house. You will rarely get that money back.

Usually you'd be better off to do some good cleaning and add a bit of touch-up paint rather than spend a lot of money on ineffective renovations. Big jobs hardly ever command enough of a higher price when selling your home to make them pay.

When it comes time to sell your home you have to start looking at it as a stranger would. A lot of people are going to be tramping around the house looking at corners and at the little cracks you've put up with for years.

So take some time for a good inspection tour with some member of your family who hasn't been around the house for a while. Note all the little problems that need attention.

Usually by taking care of these small items you can make your home very attractive when it comes time to selling it and it won't cost you a great deal of money.

It's rather foolish to panel a wall when a simple paint job will do. Panelling, of course, would be much more attractive as a selling point, but is it worth it?

HE NEEDS A FAMILY

Looking at those big eyes and that wistful little face, don't you feel like reaching out to gather Joey into your arms and telling him everything's going to be all right? This baby is 13 months old, Irish and English in descent. He is a sturdy boy with engagingly dimpled hands, blue eyes, light brown hair and medium complexion.

Joey does not seem afraid of anything but is sociable only with people he knows. Perhaps that explains the sad look in the picture, because the photographer was a stranger.

Dear little Joey was held up for adoption because he was diagnosed as hydrocephalic, which means there was an abnormal build up of fluid inside his head. Successful surgery was performed and an internal drain called a shunt installed. Sometimes this condition results in brain damage, but not in Joey's case. He has had no further trouble and is now in excellent health.

Joey is an active baby, at present, much interested in the contents of cupboards. He is very fond of other children and also is good friends with the dog and cat in his foster home. He likes to be outdoors.

Joey needs a home where he will have older brothers and sisters and where the parents will be patient and understanding while he learns to trust them. To inquire about adopting Joey, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information ask your Children's Aid Society.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

Handling Criticism
Dear Margaret Brookfield:
My 60-year-old mother is forever picking on me. (I'm 16 1/2 and the only daughter.) And things seem to be getting worse instead of better. My mother is always complaining about my clothes, my looks, my behavior, my personality and my friends. You name it; she doesn't like it. We always get into the worst arguments about everything. And we just keep yelling at each other at the top of our voices. I know I'm not perfect, but I can't be as bad as she says. Is there some way I can make her quit criticizing me?

Dear B.G.:
There are parents who find it hard to communicate without introducing some personal criticism, name-calling or belittling. When they do this, they provoke rage, resentment and guilt in their children, without even realizing it themselves. And when one is on the receiving end of such an attack, it's not easy to respond constructively. The natural response is to counterattack by trading insult for insult. It's usually, however, much better to switch than fight. One way to do this is by refusing to accept the validity of the comments you hear. In the midst of a verbal attack, it might be best to calmly say something like: "Your words aren't helpful to me right now. They don't make me want to improve. We'd do better talking about the problem and its possible solutions." Using this approach might help cool things down for both of you.

How Long Does it Last?
Dear Margaret Brookfield:
I am 50 years old and would like to know, as a general rule, how long the menopause lasts. I understand it begins approximately at age 49, which was the case for me.

Dear P.C.:
The menopause begins for most women when they reach their late forties or early fifties. For some women, it occurs all at once. For others it's more gradual. What happens is that their ovarian levels of estrogen drop off, bringing their periods to an end.

Physicians say a woman is in menopause if she has not had a period for 12 months. Each situation is different, of course. If a woman feels fine, it doesn't matter how long the menopause lasts. But if she's beset by various physical and emotional symptoms—as many women are—the time can seem interminable. Under such circumstances, the woman should certainly see her doctor. He might recommend estrogen replacement as the therapy to alleviate her symptoms and restore her tranquility.

Witnesses planning convention

Jehovah's Witnesses from the Stirling area are making preparations for their semi-annual convention which will be held in Peterborough January 21 to 23 in the Thomas A. Stewart Secondary School.

The program provides for 10 hours of instruction on the application of Bible principles to family life. In addition, for two hours each day the delegates will engage in calling from house-to-house, taking the message of the convention directly to the people of Peterborough.

One feature of the convention will be practical demonstrations on how to prevent a communication gap in the family. Parents will be shown how to involve their young people in activities which will prevent the development of a generation gap.

Another feature will be the baptism of new ministers by their complete immersion in water.

The highlight of the assembly will be a public lecture entitled "CAN YOU LIVE FOREVER?" WILL YOU? It will be delivered by William Veenstra, an elder of Jehovah's Witnesses with supervisory responsibilities in eastern Ontario.

Story of airmail goes back 200 years

Most people would be surprised to learn that the story of airmail goes back nearly 200 years - long before the days of aeroplanes. The first official British airmail service was inaugurated 60 years ago, when a series of flights was made between London and Windsor as part of the celebrations marking the coronation of King George V, but long before that date attempts had been made to carry mail by air.

In May 1807, for example, Admiral Cochrane, the Earl of Dundonald, transmitted messages from the British lines to the French through the Peninsular campaign by means of kites. Carrier pigeons have been used since time immemorial and it was by means of "pigeongrams" that the outcome of the Battle of Waterloo three days before the news broke in London, thus enabling him to buy shares on the London stock market and take a tremendous profit when they rocketed in value after the victory was officially announced.

The Montgolfier Brothers made their first balloon ascent in November 1782 and the ballooning craze swiftly spread over Europe. In September 1784 Vincenzo Lunardi made the first ascent in England and dropped three letters over the side. One of these was found near the milestone on Northway Common near London and posted back to Lunardi by the funder. The text of this letter - Britain's first "aerogramme" - is reproduced in Lunardi's memoirs. It became customary for balloonists to drop letters and numerous examples of this unofficial airmail have been recorded.

The first attempt in Britain to carry mail by balloon on a large scale was made on October 6, 1870, barely a fortnight after a balloon post was organized from Paris during the Franco-Prussian War.

On this occasion an unmanned balloon was launched from London's Crystal Palace during a fireworks display and subsequently recovered at Acrise Farm near Folkestone, Kent. The postcards contained in the mailbags were postmarked Rythe. Examples of these Crystal Palace cards are very rare and are highly prized as forerunners of British airmail.

To celebrate the coronation of King Edward VII in August 1902 special postcards portraying the king and queen were despatched by balloon from Beckenham in Kent. Later that year cards were flown by balloon from Manchester to publicize a Lifeboat Saturday. These souvenir postcards are now eagerly sought after by philatelists.

Flights by heavier-than-air machines took place in the Edwardian period but were poorly publicized and left little in the way of distinctive souvenirs. The first Aviation Meeting took place at Blackpool in August 1910 when Claude Grahame-White carried despatches by aeroplane from Lytham Hall to Squire's Gate. An Air Meeting at Llanurk the following week was marked by several picture postcards and mail was cancelled by a postmark inscribed LANARK GRAND STAND. This postmark was normally used for telegraphic purposes but postcards bearing it are regarded as among the greatest of British aviation rarities. A flying exhibition was staged by Grahame-White at Southport in June 1911 as part of the Coronation festivities and various attractive labels were produced. The World's first official airmail flight was made in India in February 1911 in connection with the United Provinces Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition at Allahabad and a special postmark showing a monoplane was used on souvenir mail.

The flights were organized by Captain (later Sir) Walter Wyndham who, later that year, was responsible for the London - Windsor flights. Between Sept. 9 and 15 there were 16 flights and 928 pounds of correspondence was carried. Various souvenir postcards and envelopes, and distinctive "Aerial Post" cancellations were produced. Although items from the 1911 flights are not scarce, they are of enormous interest to collectors since they represent the beginning of official airmail in Britain.

Donald Williams heads county board for 1972

Donald Williams of Stirling was re-elected for a second term as chairman of Hastings county board of education last week at the first meeting of 1972.

Mr. Williams was elected on the first ballot, but it took four ballots and a tie-breaking draw to select a vice-chairman.

Nominated on the first ballot were 1971 vice-chairman Everett Fairman, MacDonald Smith and Trenton trustees Mrs. Jean Hutchinson and Ralph Weaver.

After the fourth vote Mr. Smith and Mr. Weaver were tied, and the administration and establishing good relations with teachers, he said.

This was the second time lots were drawn to break a tie for a position on the county board. Two years ago trustee James Clarke and MacDonald Smith tied for the chairman's post, and the director of education was called upon to supervise the tie-breaking procedure. Mr. Clarke was the winner of that draw.

Mr. Williams lauded the trustees for their co-operative attitude during the first three years of the county board's existence. Accomplishments during the past year included streamlining the administration and establishing good relations with teachers, he said.

As the county board enters its fourth year, Mr. Williams listed "areas we should look at" including improvement of communications, particularly with teachers, and concern with the courses of study in the schools. "As trustees, we should be knowledgeable about what is being taught, and how it's being taught," he said, "it's not right to tell the educators to look after the schools and we'll look after the finances."

The courage of the handicapped

Two years ago, Lois Stone of Shillington, Ontario, became deaf in addition to being almost totally immobile due to severe rheumatoid arthritis. The Rehabilitation Foundation for the Disabled was instrumental in changing this so that today she can hear, walk and even swim which she does extremely well. First seen at the Foundation's Annual Orthopedic Clinic at Kirkland Lake by volunteer medical consultants, Lois has made many trips to Toronto for corrective surgery which has really paid off.

This and other Foundation Programs for handicapped Ontario adults are financed through Ability Fund (March of Dimes) campaigns held each January.

On the evening of March 31, 1954, a car collided with the back of a truck outside of Aylmer, Ontario. Damage to both vehicles was minimal; however, a passenger in the car was rushed to hospital with possible neck injuries. His name was Bob Barrett and the injuries turned out to be far worse than anyone at the scene of the accident had thought possible. From the moment of impact Bob became a Quadriplegic and has now been paralyzed from the neck down for over sixteen years.

Corrective surgery was able to return partial use of his arms and hands but his general physical movement is greatly limited and will probably remain so for the rest of his life.

Most people in Bob's place would be completely demoralized and bitter. Perhaps at one time Bob also felt this way but not today because he just doesn't have the time.

Like many other people who have faced disability Bob has learned that life is precious under almost any circumstances and not a minute should ever be wasted. He is a local distributor of Amway Products and is presently organizing district Rehab. Home Parties through which products produced by the handicapped are marketed.

This January, Bob Barrett will again be organizing Ability Fund volunteers in Elgin County out of his room at St. Thomas Elgin Memorial Hospital. Funds raised will be used to support programs of the Rehabilitation Foundation for the Disabled which assist handicapped Ontario adults.

In 1951, Dorothy Clark of Stratford requested assistance from the Ability Fund (March of Dimes) for physical rehabilitation. After a severe bout of polio at the age of eleven, which left her almost totally paralyzed, Dorothy spent the next twenty-eight years being carried from bed to chair mainly because rehabilitation facilities were not then available.

The road to self independence started at Lyndhurst Lodge in Toronto. Two and a half years of intensive physiotherapy there and corrective surgery at the Toronto General Hospital - all financed by the March of Dimes - prepared Dorothy for her return to Stratford and eventual self employment. She has been successfully operating out of her apartment as a Publisher's Agent since that time and, in 1960, became Secretary for the Ability Fund's Central Western Ontario campaigns.

Letter to the editor

Dear Sir:

Much to my disgust and amazement, while visiting at a home on the Ridge Road last Sunday, it was found that the new 1972 telephone directories were being "delivered," presumably by a toss from a car, and left lying in the homeowner's driveway, closer to the highway than the house. Fortunately a neighbor girl walking by noticed the book lying in the snow and brought it to the door, explaining the same thing had happened at her place.

I understand from an ad I read in the January 5th edition of the News-Argus these people are being paid to deliver these books. I would think it only proper that the job included either leaving them between the house doors or in the mailbox where possible, certainly not lying on the ground only to be covered with the next snowfall which incidentally came down on Monday.

How are we to "look in the book" if we haven't the book to look in?

An interested observer.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bailey called on Mrs. Jessie Haig at the Case Nursing Home, Bobcaygon, Ont. on Sunday.

Thursday evening, about 50 ladies gathered at the Women's Institute hall to honor Nancy Gray prior to her marriage on Saturday, at Zion United Church. Mrs. Ray Stewart was M.C. for the short program consisting of games and contests, a reading by Mrs. Maurice Owens and piano music by Mrs. Clarence Thompson. Many useful and beautiful gifts were unwrapped by the bride-to-be who passed them around for all to see, then in a few well-chosen words Nancy thanked all for their kindness, and lunch was served.

On Friday evening Mrs. Roy Young of Campbellford entertained the aunts, grandmothers and a few cousins to a family shower at her home, in honor of her niece, Lynne Spencer, another January bride. Contests and games were played, and the bride opened her gifts, passing them around for all to see. Lynne thanked her aunt for opening her home and the rest of the ladies for their thoughtfulness. The hostess and her sisters served delicious refreshments.

Several from here attended the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Anderson at the home of their son, Lloyd and his wife at Trent River. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson greeted the guests as they arrived, while Beth and Debbie Anderson and Gerry Cranston of all grandchildren, had charge of the guest book. The family presented them with a Hi Fi and the neighbors gave them two bronze and green occasional chairs. They also received several other lovely gifts. Both their attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hubble of Glen Ross were also in attendance. A beautiful anniversary cake was made and decorated by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. E. Anderson and their daughter, Mrs. Doug Cranston of Napanee.

BUILDING A FILM PHANTASY

National Film Board director Co Hoedeman amid a child's dream world of building blocks. Over 2,500 colored blocks are used to create a phantasy city for an NFB short puppet film.

Using a stop-action technique of shooting (single shots on motion picture film), Hoedeman's story tells of the adventures of a boy and a girl in a city inhabited by a dragon. Hoedeman, last year created "Matroska" a production employing the same technique as his latest film, which was awarded the Blue Ribbon of the American Film Festival in New York.

ARDA helps residents relocate

Rural living should be and can be a happy experience; but if this is not the case for you, maybe A.R.D.A., the Agricultural and Rural Development Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food can help you! It has helped others! One such family is presently enjoying life in the Kawartha Lake Region like they never enjoyed it before. They say it was all because of ARDA's assistance, but really, ARDA only helped.

John and Mary (their real identity is being withheld) had both worked in Toronto after their marriage. They lived frugally saving their money for the time when they could put a down payment on a farm and really start living. The big day came and they made the plunge but they weren't prepared to cope with the vagaries of nature and the uncertainties of the market place. Drought disease and low prices reduced their farm income.

First John and then Mary went back into the labor market hoping to make enough to meet their financial obligations. The farm work was neglected and the farm became a millstone while their indebtedness mounted. A private sale of the farm cleared their expenses and left them with their household effects - no home to live in - no money to relocate - and the bitter feeling of defeat. A job was open during the summer in the Kawarthas and there was the prospect of training for full-time work during the winter through Canada Manpower. The local A.R.D.A. Counsellor was contacted, their case was presented for approval, it was approved, and funds were made available to cover the expenses of the move, pay their first months rent and provide the necessities of life until the first wage cheque came along.

John and Mary never looked back. John now has a full time job. His wages doubled. Mary has a part time job as a book-keeper and the three children as well as their parents have found new friends.

"We felt pretty blue having to give up the farm but thanks to ARDA we have an entirely new outlook on life and things are going well for us again. Living in the Kawarthas has all the advantages of rural life without the disadvantages of owning a farm," says John.

ARDA helps people solve their problems - enlarge their farm, enlarge their plant, improve their opportunities for employment. If you have this kind of problem talk to ARDA about it.

Earl Fox and Arthur Dugan gave the initial talks on the project, estimated at about $600,000 and after some questions/comments by the general membership, it was unanimously agreed to turn the matter over to the Board to conduct a feasibility study, and report to a special congregational meeting for approval of contractor and design.

The meeting began with a luck survey, and the bus transportation was conducted by minister, Rev. Roy Taylor. Bennett was elected clerk for the evening.

Mrs. H. Keefe spoke

times these may seem more benefit in that if the society does not report, how can others this point she brought to the attention of the group several interesting ideas, and some

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

An Empty Nest
Dear Margaret Brookfield:
Do all or most mothers feel as I do when their children have left home? Our son is now at college. Our two daughters are married and living quite far away from us. We have one grandson, four months old. Our other girl is expecting her first child this spring. My husband says I worry too much. But isn't that what a mother is for?

Dear W.P.:
So many women feel as you do, they've even come up with a name for your condition. It's called the "empty nest" syndrome. It occurs when women, who have devoted their full energy to their children, suddenly discover their kids are grown and able to fend quite nicely for themselves. Some women at this time start to feel blue and useless; but many pick themselves up and begin pursuing their own interests, hobbies, perhaps even a job. Being free of their former responsibilities, they're able to give top priority to themselves and their husbands for a change. So why not develop a few interests of your own now? You'll find this leaves you less time to worry about your children. Besides, they seem to be getting along fine on their own.

Worse Before Better?
Dear Margaret Brookfield:
I'd appreciate any information you might give that would help me through this time of life. I'm 50 years old. When I was 49, I had a hysterectomy. (My uterus was removed then, but my ovaries weren't.) Now, I'm not sure if I'm through the menopause or not. When I talk about this with my friends, they always say, "You'll be worse before you're better." Could they be right?

Dear H.S.:
Physicians say that women who have both their uterus and ovar-

Mailing 22.2 million booklets is a big job.

Tax reform legislation has been passed by Parliament and is now law.

What does tax reform mean to you? How will it affect you?

To answer these questions, the Department is conducting a massive national mailing program. Booklets are now being printed and mailed to all taxpayers as quickly as they come off the press.

The complete mailing will be finished in about three weeks.

All taxpayers will receive at least two booklets—

"Highlights for Individuals" and "Valuation Day". These should provide answers to most of your questions.

Some taxpayers will receive additional information, according to their specific needs.

Read your booklets. Afterwards, if you have questions, ask us. We'll be glad to help.

You will find that your booklets will make it easier to file your income tax return in 1973, because they will help you to prepare now.

A Pipedream?

That Lake Ontario Water pipeline proposal continues to sound more like a pipedream.

As with the scheme advanced by the senior levels of government, the experts are now predicting cost estimates far in excess of those originally presented.

What if the proposal to build this giant pipeline, to carry water from area municipalities, appears to be to alleviate water shortages in one large municipality - namely the city of Belleville.

The town of Trenton, which recently constructed a 90 million gallon storage pond, naturally is not anxious to enter into the proposed expensive scheme.

There is bound to be resistance also from many other local municipalities when they learn what this project is going to cost them.

In Stirling, we have the distinct feeling that it will be a long time before this municipality will be serviced by water pumped up over the Oak Hills.

In the meantime, we ought not to be saddled with the cost of building a water system without some sort of guarantee that the pipe will reach Stirling, during the lifetime of the present generation.

Do You Remember?

25 Years Ago

At the reorganization meeting of the Stirling Hydro Electric Commission on Monday night, Roy Eggleton was elected chairman for the coming year.

The induction of Rev. R. W. Barker, M.A., S.T.B., of York, Ont., as minister of St. Paul's, Stirling, and Carleton will take place in St. Paul's United Church, on Friday evening, January 31st at 8 p.m. Following the induction service, a reception will be held in the church parlors. Rev. Barker will succeed Rev. A. M. Lavery who recently was appointed chaplain at Queen's University.

While working at a bench saw at Stirling Lumber Co. on Tuesday morning Frank Haggerty had the first three fingers of his left hand badly mangled. The injured man was attended by Dr. E. A. Carleton.

Over seventy wolves which raided farmlands of the southern part of the district were killed in Hastings County in 1946. County Treasurer Ross Bailey said today, Bounties were paid by township and county on all of these animals, the majority of which were killed in the northern townships, Tyendinaga, in the south, produced more wolves than any of its sister townships.

While working at a bench saw at Stirling Lumber Co. on Tuesday morning Frank Haggerty had the first three fingers of his left hand badly mangled. The injured man was attended by Dr. E. A. Carleton.

Messrs. H. C. Bird and Sid Williams spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Toronto, where they purchased a carload of choice quality Western beef cattle.

65 Years Ago

The County Council met at Belleville on Tuesday afternoon. For the past ten years the Council has consisted of only 14 members, but now there are 30. The Clerk suggested that they pick out the most comfortable seats, but as there are only 32 seats in the room they had not much choice.

The Clerk called upon the Council to elect a Warden, and Mr. Stanley Vandervoort, of Sidney, seconded by Mr. James Best, of Bancroft, nominated Mr. Andrew Kirk, reeve of Hungerford, as Warden. As there were no other nominations, Mr. Kirk was unanimously elected warden for 1907.

The new Warden took the solemn oath of office and in a few remarks after taking the oaths, said he did not have time to prepare a speech.

For many years he had been a member of the County Council. He referred to the strange fact that there were just seven of the old members re-elected, but the strangest part of it all was that there was a representative from each of the seven divisions of the county. He told of the necessary improvements which would have to be done in the county. The situation here is that the Fair Board set a date for its annual meeting, had notices printed and advertised the event in the News-Argus for last Saturday. Only after the paper was published did it come to light there was another event, for which many of those wishing to attend the Fair Board meeting had already purchased tickets. As a result, the Board had to postpone its meeting a week.

This has happened more than once and will doubtless happen more often unless some consideration is given to plan against such occurrences. In a small community like Stirling, there are bound to be numerous people who belong to several organizations. Many from the rural area may belong to some things in town, some in their own localities, and also in nearby towns, such as Frankford, Marmora or Madoc.

What seems to be needed here is something that we know has been tried in at least one other place, slightly larger than Stirling - a central registry of community events. The first requirement is that a site be established, free of charge, and the members have to choose which they will attend.

The idea I am advocating is that when any group that encompasses a major segment of the population as potential attendees at any event, then this registration centre should be contacted to see which dates are open, or at least which would cause the least complication, should there be a duplication. If it became a standard practice, then such things as happened with the example cited, would be either avoided or at least reduced in frequency.

One criticism I have heard voiced since arriving here is that the town is over-organized. This may or may not be a valid statement. There does seem to be a profusion of organizations and many of the same types within a few miles in each direction. I am thinking of W.P.S. church groups, and other similar meetings. There certainly seems to be an over-abundance of fraternal groups, when you consider the distances between some of them. I also know the answer that would come back in chorus, were there any hint of merging.

We've had our group for XX years and we're not going to change now. Pride in organization is all right, but maybe there would be more advantage in one group with a membership of 50 or 75 than four or five with 10, 15 each.

I am not by any means advocating anything for any group, or even associated groups, I do feel that over the past 20 or so years, with the change in styles of God's resources. When one person falls all society suffers. Conversely, all society benefits when one person turns over a new leaf. The poem, "My neighbor's roses are also mine," was read, and also "A Smile Costs Nothing." A smile is no good till it is given away. Those who need it most are those who have not the time or the mood to smile. Leave them one who should not be morose, but rather a walking testimony to God's grace, showing outward glow from inward peace.

Fitchett closed the meeting with prayer, after which a sumptuous tea was enjoyed, with Mrs. C. Tucker, Mrs. W. Harlow and Mrs. G. Carlisle as hostesses. Thanks was expressed by Mrs. R. Duffin to all who had taken part in the meeting and served.

In Group B, averages of 159 and under, Naomi Eggleton bowled the high single of 196 and Heather McGee bowled the high triple of 503.

A Suggestion

BY LYNN JONES

Last week's postponement of the annual meeting of the Stirling Agricultural Society has pointed up a deficiency which exists in Stirling, but is not peculiar to this village. It happens all too frequently even in larger communities where there is lack of co-ordination in regard to important community events.

The situation here is that the Fair Board set a date for its annual meeting, had notices printed and advertised the event in the News-Argus for last Saturday. Only after the paper was published did it come to light there was another event, for which many of those wishing to attend the Fair Board meeting had already purchased tickets. As a result, the Board had to postpone its meeting a week.

This has happened more than once and will doubtless happen more often unless some consideration is given to plan against such occurrences. In a small community like Stirling, there are bound to be numerous people who belong to several organizations. Many from the rural area may belong to some things in town, some in their own localities, and also in nearby towns, such as Frankford, Marmora or Madoc.

What seems to be needed here is something that we know has been tried in at least one other place, slightly larger than Stirling - a central registry of community events. The first requirement is that a site be established, free of charge, and the members have to choose which they will attend.

The idea I am advocating is that when any group that encompasses a major segment of the population as potential attendees at any event, then this registration centre should be contacted to see which dates are open, or at least which would cause the least complication, should there be a duplication. If it became a standard practice, then such things as happened with the example cited, would be either avoided or at least reduced in frequency.

One criticism I have heard voiced since arriving here is that the town is over-organized. This may or may not be a valid statement. There does seem to be a profusion of organizations and many of the same types within a few miles in each direction. I am thinking of W.P.S. church groups, and other similar meetings. There certainly seems to be an over-abundance of fraternal groups, when you consider the distances between some of them. I am not by any means advocating anything for any group, or even associated groups, I do feel that over the past 20 or so years, with the change in styles of living, due mainly to people moving to larger centres or seeking their entertainment in bigger places, the former close-knit rural community is either weakening or disappearing, depending on the locale. If there is any truth to the fact there is unity in strength, it may eventually be the salvation of many organizations to come together. This day is undoubtedly a long way in the future for some, closer than some might wish to acknowledge for others.

What I feel is important now is to try and avoid major meetings, hopefully, there will be better attendance at all.

Trail project gets two-way criticism

The new Lake Ontario-Algonquin Park recreational trail now in its initial phases of development as a local manpower of fine winter works program, came in for two-way criticism at last week's closing session of Hastings county council.

On one hand some council members were unhappy that the trail was being developed primarily as a walking trail, while others were concerned about the property owners' liability.

In a report to council, Huntingdon Reeve Russell Sills, as a trail steering committee representative, noted that the Bruce Trail Association in Western Ontario does not undertake any written legal agreements with landowners nor does it accept any obligation of public liability for which insurance coverage would be required.

Mr. Sills said it was expected the Quinte trail project would be constructed along similar lines - thereby avoiding possible legal entanglements and lawsuits.

The Huntingdon Reeve said the trail was to primarily a walking trail, although there would be some sections available for snowmobile or mini-bike use.

Faraday Reeve Jack McKenzie said if the trail was to be for walking only, the $125,000 expenditure was but a waste of taxpayers' money.

Maddox Reeve Cecil Woods said researchers now contacting farmers along the trail route were asking permission for a walking trail only, snowmobiles, but he would like to see a combination of the two.

Dunngannon Reeve Calvin White noted that even with a trail for walkers only, there could be problems completely unrelated to ownership liability.

Most of the people using the trail would be urban residents getting a brief respite from city living.

In many instances such people had little appreciation of other people's property and Reeve White said there could be fire danger from carelessly tossed cigarettes.

If the trail was used by snowmobilers there would be little regard for fences.

Many snowmobiles either come equipped with wire cutters or have them in the tool compartment, he said.

"I am not too sure that I would want them crossing my property," he said.

MRS. NORA V. PREST

In failing health for the last six weeks, Mrs. Nora Prest passed away on Jan. 15 at Hastings Manor. She was the wife of the late Leonard A. Prest (of Holloway) and had lived most of her life on their farm on the 8th concession of Sidney, until she became a resident of Hastings Manor nine years ago. She was in her 91st year.

Daughter of the late Robert Broadworth and Alma Burger, she spent her early life in Madoc and received her education there. She later attended Teachers College in Ottawa and followed the teaching profession for several years.

She was active in church and institute work most of her life.

She is survived by one sister, (Marjorie) Mrs. Pegg, Santa Monica, California. Three sisters predeceased her.

The funeral was held at the Hogle Funeral Home on Monday, Jan. 17 at 1:30 p.m., Rev. Charles Savage of Sidney Baptist Church officiated. Entombment was in Stirling Vault with interment later in Giffin's Cemetery.

Honorary Bearers were Lorne Reid, Gerald Irvine, George Prest, Douglas Prest, Harry Danford and Gerald Danford.

Wellman's Corners

(By Mrs. Victor Graham) Mr. and Mrs. Allan Lake spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Don Maybee in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Maitland of Port Hope were dinner guests on Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Seelye, Carol and Catherine, and visited with Mrs. Charles Dunham in the Campbell Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Glenn and children of Belleville were supper guests on Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sharp and family.

Dairy producers halved in decade

The number of dairy producers in Hastings county has dropped drastically in the past decade with the 828 now operating being only one-half the number of only eight years ago.

This was noted last week by county agricultural representative Douglas Tipper in a report of his office activities to Hastings county council.

The breakdown of dairy producers showed that the decline continued in 1971 when the number of milk shippers dropped from a high of 680 to 576 at the end of the year.

Of the total number of fluid milk shippers, 162 were Goup 1 pool shippers and 414 industrial. Forty-one per cent of the fluid milk shippers are now using bulk tanks.

One of the most significant trends in dairy production is the use of pipeline milking systems for conventional barns with about 40 in use - 1/2 of them installed last year.

In addition to the 576 fluid milk shippers, there are 146 cream shippers in the county, 77 of them shipping the year round.

There are now only nine cheese factories in the county, three creameries and one fluid milk dairy.

But despite the decrease in the number of dairy producers, Mr. Tipper said the significant figures lie in the actual pounds of milk production.

Milk production in the county was down four per cent in 1970 when unsettled times resulted in numbers of older producers and small shippers getting out of the dairy industry.

By comparison, relatively few people left in 1971 when better suited in better prices to the producer.

It is still too early for total production figures for last year, but as a result of better prices, full production in 1971 was up by about 25 per cent.

Will man pollute himself out of existence? Will life be destroyed by a nuclear holocaust? Is death an inevitable human experience? Stewart Secondary School in Peterborough this past Sunday afternoon.

Thirty-seven delegates from this area were among those in attendance.

Walton Lidster, local presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, said that "The purpose of the three-day convention was to educate and build up Christian families in right principles."

Quinte farmers meet

Approximately 275 farmers from the four-county Quinte area turned out at Club Canara last week for the first session of a two-day farm conference geared to discussions on livestock and crops.

Represented at the Wednesday meeting were farmers from Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Northumberland, with a few visitors from as far away as Durham county.

The World Day of Prayer meeting is to be held on March 3 at Mount Pleasant United Church and Mrs. John May is to be the special speaker. A Bible Study group is being held each Wednesday morning at St. Paul's United Church and all men and women who care to attend will be made welcome.

In lieu of an Imaginary Bazaar next fall, each Unit is being asked to raise $200 over and above their monthly contributions by various group projects and with individual effort. To this end a Bake Sale will be held on March 25.

Mrs. May spoke on Stewardship and displayed a poster entitled "Love Cares - Love Shares." The Worship Service and Program was led by Mrs. Bessie Bush, assisted by Mrs. Flossie Irvin. The theme was "Preparing for the New Year" with three questions to be considered: Where are we, Who am I and Where are we going? The Worship Centre was comprised of a model depicting the closed door of 1971 and the open door of 1972 with Christ and the lighted candle waiting to guide.

"Standing at the Portal" was the theme of the service.

Why can't the fair board put a wire fence about 2 ft. high around the grand stand floor to stop the children sitting up there in front of everyone? They are not there to watch the show. My pictures prove that. They are pictures of the guest speakers and entertainers and spoil every picture. I have excellent coloured pictures of someone's kids I don't even know, and the people I wanted pictures of are in the background.

So let's have a nice fancy fence around the grand stand floor. The cost would be very little and the satisfaction great.

Thank you.
Mrs. Harry Turritt
